What is the value of VISUALIZATION?

今日の期待

A close-up portrait of a middle-aged man with short, light brown hair, wearing black-rimmed glasses. He has a slight smile and is looking directly at the camera. He is wearing a white collared shirt under a brown tweed jacket. The background is a dark, textured grey.

Let's be Hans!

Final Thought

Visualization is not decoration.
It is communication.

Your data, your analysis, your effort
only matter if they are seen, understood, and remembered.

Make your work visible.
Make it clear.
Make it worth seeing.
